ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A moving picture playback method comprises forming a first window based on a software, forming a second window as a child window of the first window on the first window, forming a third window as a child window of the second window within the second window, setting a shape of each frame of the moving picture on the second window, and drawing a picture of the frame on the third window.

5